SAY STORY WAS
NOT LIBELOUSIndianapolis Attorneys Tell Watson
Attack Made on Him in Star
Was Not Damaging.

NO CHARGES ARE PREFERRED

Former Congressman Intended to Bring Action if There Was Ground.

James E. Watson returned last night from Indianapolis where he consulted lawyers concerning the article reprinted from the Chicago Tribune and the Philadelphia North American, in the Indianapolis Star yesterday morning, and inferring that the Arizona Land and Irrigation Company, of which Mr. Watson is president, had had some sort of a "pull" with the administration in securing a tract of government land to conduct the enterprise.

"I had three sets of lawyers at work yesterday," said Mr. Watson this morning, "and if they had found that the article appearing in the Star was libelous I would most certainly have brought an action. They decided that a libel suit could not be made on the strength of that article alone as no charges were preferred."

Mr. Watson said yesterday that he could not see where any charges had been made, but he felt that there might be opportunity for action in that the story was replete with base intimations and inferences which might be taken as an injury to character. Mr. Watson was disposed to believe that the headlines put on the story by the Star were more damaging than the story itself in that they did not convey the idea expressed in the story. Mr. Watson made a statement in reply to the attack, which was printed in the Star this morning, and which is as follows:

I take it for granted that any one who carefully read your article in Wednesday's issue headed "Fisher Invites Public Charges in Watson Case" is fully satisfied that I am guilty of no wrong doing, for the secretary of the interior and the commissioner of the land office both exonerate me from any charge of unfair or unusual or improper methods in dealing with their department. Fearing, however, that some one might draw a different inference from the articles printed in the Chicago Tribune and the Philadelphia North American, I submit for your consideration this elaboration of the statement of Secretary Fisher in further vindication of my conduct.

In January, 1911, when there was no thought of a political campaign in the minds of the people, the Santa Fe railroad company sold to the Arizona land and irrigation company script to cover 15,000 acres of land in Arizona. This was regularly done, according to law, and the Santa Fe thereupon made application to the government to grant title in accordance with the federal statutes covering such cases.

This application was not made in my name, nor in the name of my company, but by the Santa Fe railroad and was filed in April, 1911. It Continued on page four.

HORSE HE "MADE"
SELLS FOR $7,500John Dagler, Son of Wm. Dagler, Wins Praise For Work as Trainer and Driver.

HE FOUND BALDY MCGREGOR

Baldy McGregor, the three-year-old trotting horse which John Dagler of Richmond, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Dagler, made what he is today, was sold yesterday at Cleveland for $7,500. John Dagler is manager of the Reidson stock farm at Richmond. He bought the dam of the phenomenal young trotter in Kentucky for $200. The horse was broken, trained and raced by the local boy, and was never handled by any other trainer. George B. Dougan, the owner of the Reidson stock farm is very proud of Dagler's work and says that he has a promising future as a trainer and driver of fast horses. Baldy McGregor finished in the money in the trotting sweepstakes at Cleveland Tuesday, and John E. Madden liked the horse so well that he paid the price asked for him. Mr. Madden, it is said, is also attempting to buy the only other horse, Ruth Randal, in John Dagler's stable. She was "made" by Dagler.

MEETING OF SCHOOL BOARD

Reorganized and Elected Officers for Coming Year.

The Rushville school board met this morning and reorganized for the coming year. A. R. Holden was elected president, Bert Mullin, treasurer and J. T. Arbuckle, secretary. Mr. Mullin succeeds Ernest Thomas as a member of the board. Mr. Thomas retires after six years of service. Previous to the election of Mr. Mullin to the board, Mr. Arbuckle was president, Mr. Holden, secretary and Mr. Thomas, treasurer.

The funeral services of Robert Wellman will be held tomorrow afternoon at the residence of Thomas Downey, near New Salem. Burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

THIS AGED MAN
WAS ASTOUNDEDW. A. Mann, Age 80, is First Person to Reach Col. Peck's Side
After He Alights.

HIS APPRECIATION SINCERE

When he Was Boy, One Suggesting
What Was Seen, Would Have Been Locked Up.

"Let me shake your hand, boy. When I was your age, if they had told me a fellow could do just what I saw you do they would have locked him up and sent him to the crazy asylum."

Such was the impression of W. A. Mann, age eighty years, who resides with his daughter, Mrs. Roy Readle and family in North Harrison street. It was the first time he ever saw an airship, when Col. Peck gracefully floated his Columbia biplane down into the Jersey City aviation field late yesterday.

Mr. Mann was the first person to reach Col. Peck's side. Although he has lived four score years, he was more agile than even the aviator's press agent and managers who were on the field and hastening to get to the aviator before anyone approached him.

Mr. Mann was almost under the air craft when it gradually came to a stop. He was jubilant, enthusiastic—hilarious is a mild term for his state of mind—when Col. Peck alighted from his machine. The aged man in whose youth the navigation of the air was an unheard of thing was the warmest admirer of the young aviator in the crowd of several thousand people.

His handshake was warm and hearty, and he could not express his feelings, he said, as he gave vent to the sensations he experienced as he saw the big bird come sailing through the air as easily as if it were a natural thing in the realm of the air.

"That's the warmest appreciation of my work I have ever received," said Col. Peck to newspaper men after Mr. Mann had stepped aside and given way to the crowd of curious people who desired to see what kind of a monstrosity an aviator was anyway.

"I have been praised unstintingly for my work in conquering the air, but I never received any more gladly than I did from that old man. He talked like he meant it. And he is in a position to realize the wonderful advancement that has been made because, as he said, the man who said sixty years ago that the man who could make a body heavier than the air fly through the light atmosphere, propelled by itself, would have been sent to the place where they keep dangerous people."

W. A. Mann was not the only person who crowded about the young aviator. He was the center of hundreds of admiring eyes. Advance notices stated that Col. Peck was only twenty-two years old, but he appears like a lad of eighteen years, diffident and unassuming, and not desiring to take any credit to himself for his remarkable performances in the air.

Col. Peck was first drawn to aerial navigation a few years ago, while in Italy. He met the celebrated aviator Curtiss, there, and was persuaded by him to think of aerial navigation; instead of automobilizing, which was then uppermost in the young man's mind. Since then he has rapidly taken rank among the foremost birdmen of the world. He believes that a few more years will make the navigation of the air comparatively safe, and that biplanes will be, especially in level or gently rolling

COL. PECK GIVES
TWO FLIGHTSDaring Young Aviator Sends Thrill
Through Crowd as he Glides
in Air.

IS MASTER OF THE SITUATION

Arrives From Connersville in Thirty Minutes Racing Train All Way—
Many Are Disappointed.

Aviation day in Rushville is a thing of the past but the wonderful flight of Col. Paul Peck last evening will be remembered for years to come by all who were fortunate enough to have witnessed it. Although late in arriving he was received enthusiastically by the crowd and his two daring flights satisfied even the most skeptic as to his abilities to navigate the air.

Col. Peck was late in leaving Connersville. All of Rush county knows that for most of its people were here. When he failed to arrive by five o'clock many of the people from a distance departed and Col. Peck's ears must have burned judging by the things many said of him. Col. Peck left Connersville at 5:45 o'clock and landed in the W. A. Jones field in Jersey City at 6:15. The trip here required but thirty minutes which included the time when he first took to the air until he stepped on the ground here.

By the time he was ready to make his first flight here, the word had spread over the city that he had arrived and a crowd gathered on the field and in the road. Col. Peck proved to be all that had been said of him. His first flight was of ten minutes duration and although he did no fancy flying the crowd was satisfied. The daring young aviator handled the seemingly frail little biplane in the most masterful manner and at all times was conqueror of the air.

Rising slowly from the ground Col. Peck gradually attained an elevation of probably five hundred feet. From this height he circled the field, turning at different angles, dipping back toward the earth and then suddenly rising again. As he neared the completion of the first flight the aviator shut off the engine while at a great height and quietly glided to the ground. This was perhaps the most beautiful part of the flight. The aeroplane was sent around the court house before Peck headed for the aviation field.

The second flight was of short duration owing to the fact that it was getting dark which made it difficult to fly. The crowd was loath to leave the field even after Col. Peck had descended the second time. The biplane was a curiosity for a majority of the people and they had to "look the machine over." Many left the city disappointed because Col. Peck had not arrived when scheduled. The merchants were unjustly criticised by many, but they were in no way to blame. The whole trouble dates back to the Connersville end of the line. It seems that two other aviators got in on the proceeds there after Col. Peck had made the contract. Yesterday they did a bunch of "stalling" each waiting on the other to take to the air. Col. Peck became disgusted and flew from that city without giving an exhibition.

From some unknown source a rumor was started that he would not fly until Saturday and this many people believed. Shortly before six o'clock, Col. Peck in his biplane was seen in the east and interest was soon revived. A mere speck, it seemed, at first floating toward this city, then as he neared here it loomed up big. Col. Peck left Connersville at the same time as an I. & C. traction car and a C. H. & D. passenger train did. He was flying to the north of the railway. The traction car was left in the distance and the train raced along all the way to this city with him. Col. Peck came into the city probably 1,000 feet above Seventh street and headed south to the field where he gave the exhibition. The day was a success in every way. It has been a long time since so many people have been here as yesterday.

SWINE EXPERTS
MET HERE TODAYMembers of Indiana Judges Association Held Annual Session in Assembly Room.

MEET IN RICHMOND NEXT YEAR

The State meeting of the Indiana Expert Judge of Swine Association was held in the assembly room of the court house this afternoon. The meeting was attended by a large crowd and matters of interest to swine raisers were discussed.

The next meeting of the association will be held in Richmond on the first Tuesday and Wednesday of August, 1913. The officers elected for next year were: Frank Moore, Rochester, president, and T. E. Lindley, Russiaville, secretary.

The following men took part in the meeting: Lloyd Mugg, Kokomo; T. E. Lindley, Russiaville; J. M. Powell, Lebanon; A. W. Gilliam, Flora; Col. John Weddle, Franklin; Frank Moore, Rochester, editor of White Breeders Companion; Bert Stafford, of the American Swineherd, Chicago; D. O. Alter, Rushville; Andrew Clark, Williamsburg, and Clarence Palmer, Webster.

LONG FOUND OF SOUND MIND

Physicians Not Justified in Sending Him to Asylum.

Age Long was fined five dollars and costs by Mayor Black this afternoon and returned to jail for fifteen days. The charge was carrying deadly weapons. Long has been in jail for over a week now while an insanity inquest was being held. He was found to be of sound mind except when under the influence of drugs and intoxicating liquors. The physicians in the case did not believe sufficient evidence was introduced to warrant sending him to an asylum.

Judgment against James H. Barrett for an account of $31.74 was awarded the American Publishing & Engraving Co., this morning in Squire Kratzer's court. The plaintiff was given judgment when Barrett defaulted. Elmer Williams represented the plaintiff.

MAKES A THREAT
AT ORGANIZATION

Rudolph Leeds Says he Won't Act as

Bull Moose Sixth District
Chairman.

IF OPTION PLANK IS PUT IN

He is Member of Resolutions Committee Also—Lon Havens Gets On.

Rudolph Leeds, Richmond newspaper publisher, fared well at the Sixth district organization at the State Bull Moose convention in Indianapolis last night. He was appointed chairman of this district some time ago and last night the road roller was greased well and he was elected without a murmur.

Besides being named the head of the district organization Leeds was the member of the committee on resolutions from the Sixth district. Incidentally he made a fight on a county local option plank being put in the platform.

Lon Havens of this city was the only Rush county man to get in on the organization. He was named vice-chairman from the Sixth district. A number of local Bull Moose leaders, including the county chairman, Ben L. McFarlan, and the county secretary, Addison Spivey, were present at the organization of the convention committees last night. Most of the delegates from Rush county went up today.

The following from the Indianapolis Star tells of Leeds' fight on the county option plank:

A lively debate on county local option was started in the Sixth district meeting when Rudolph Leeds of Richmond, following his nomination as a member of the resolutions committee, said that he would not consent to be a member of the committee if the district delegates demanded that he support a county local option plank. He said that an initiative and referendum clause in the platform would cover the subject of option. After a long debate he was elected a member of the resolutions committee with the understanding that he would oppose a county local option plank.

Mr. Leeds was elected Sixth district chairman and William Dudley Foulke of Richmond and T. C. Bryson of Connersville were chosen delegates to the national convention. Samuel Higgenbotham of Newcastle was elected elector and F. W. Hemmaway of Union county was chosen contingent elector.

The remains of Adrian Stone, who died yesterday at the county asylum were taken to Ypsilanti, Mich., today for burial. W. P. Stone, a brother, lives in Ypsilanti.

EVOLUTION IN THE METHODS OF LOCOMOTION WAS ILLUSTRATEDAir Craft, Train, Interurban, Auto

at Same Time.

MAY HAVE BEEN OX TEAMS, TOO

The evolution in methods of locomotion from the lowly, to the greatest achievements in air conquests, was represented yesterday afternoon while Col. Paul Peck was flying in his Columbia biplane from Connersville to this city.

By the strangest coincidence while Col. Peck was soaring through the air at the rate of forty miles or better, a C. H. & D. train and an Indianapolis & Cincinnati Company's interurban car were speeding along the tracks side by side underneath the air craft, and an automobile was skimming along the pike between here and Connersville in an effort to keep sight of the biplane.

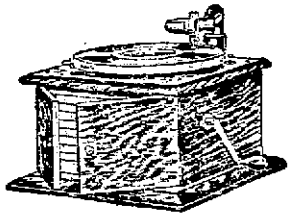

And to make the illustration more striking, it would not be assuming Continued on page eight.

persons to mail letters or post cards they desired at the Connersville aviation meet.

They would have been marked the "Aviation Field, Connersville," and carried in a pouch to this city by Col. Peck. Clarence Cross and Harvey Allen, clerks at the Rushville postoffice, took their turns waiting out at the Jersey City aviation field for the arrival of Peck so that they could receive the mail.

But the trouble at Connersville caused a disappointment. This Continued on page eight.

New York Police Official
Probing the Rosenthal Murder.

GAMBLERS GIVE OUT ADDITIONAL DETAILS

Amazing Extent of Police Graft
In Gotham.

New York, Aug. 1.—Lieutenant Becker's collector, Jack Rose, and Webber and Vallon, the gamblers, have given more information to the district attorney about the immense graff gleanings of the police in Manhattan; about Becker's success as the representative of a small ring of officials, and about the part the Lieutenant played in ordering and paying for the murder of Rosenthal.

The informers agreed that there was no way to figure just how much Becker and others obtained annually in their general blackmailing operations. Rose said that the cash that went to Becker was only a part of the police raffle-off and that Becker distributed between $2,500,000 and $3,000,000
a year among his particular backers
—two inspectors and a minor official not in uniform.

Rose did his best to convince the district attorney that the total profits of the graft game in the whole city could be obtained. He insisted that most of the money that Becker raked
in came from above Fourteenth street in Manhattan alone, and that the clean-up from all the boroughs would run into many millions. There were other hard-handed crooks besides Becker, said Rose.

Convinced that all hope of assistance from policemen or politicians had vanished, the three whose confessions brought about the indictment and imprisonment of Lieutenant Becker for murder, talked unreservedly to the district attorney.

THE NEW PARTY LAUNCHED TODAY

Indiana Followers of the Colonel Name Ticket.

BEVERIDGE AT HEAD OF IT

Former United States Senator Nominated For Governor by Hoosier
"Progressives," and Former Congressman Frederick Landis of Logansport For Lieutenant Governor—Latter Sounded the "Keynote."

Indianapolis, Aug. 1.—In state convention today Indiana followers of Theodore Roosevelt's new party movement are naming a state ticket and constructing a platform upon which to stand during the coming campaign.
Among the decorations of Tomlinson hall, where the convention is being held, are the heads of two enormous bull moose; and the name which has been given the party in derision thus becomes semi-officially the party title,
in Indiana at least.

For days it had been conceded that the nomination for governor would be given to former Senator Albert J. Beveridge, and that second place on the ticket would go to former Congressman Frederick Landis of Logansport, who, as temporary chairman of the convention, in sounding the party's keynote created a most favorable impression upon the delegates. When the convention opened a brisk contest was promised on several of the nominations.

Wabash was represented by Clifford Jackman, who is one of the candidates for secretary of state, while the Ninth district with H. H. Talbot of Crawfordsville and the Fifth district with O. L. Brown of Terre Haute, is represented in the same race.

Other Candidates.

The southern part of the state was well represented by prospective candidates. J. Benjamin Wilson of Bloomington and Minor F. Tate of Bloomfield are both candidates for the supreme court, while L. M. Mace of Scottsburg is a candidate for the supreme court reporter and Will R.
Howe of Bloomington is one of several candidates for superintendent of public instruction. John E. Carr of Indianapolis and James E. Cox of Oakland City also are contestants for the place. William A. Bond of Richmond, in the Sixth district, is a likely candidate for the supreme court in his district.

State Chairman Edwin M. Lee had been mentioned as a candidate for auditor of state, but he refused to consider it, and H. E. Cushman of Daviess county likely will be the man for the place. Harvey B. Stout, Jr., is talked of for state statistician, but is dubious about running, as he is secretary of the state committee.

The convention was called to order by Edwin M. Lee, former chairman of the Republican state committee, who has been acting as general director of the Roosevelt forces in this state both before and since the Chicago convention. Following the invocation by the Rev. Albert Hurlstone of Indianapolis,
Mr. Lee introduced Mr. Landis as temporary chairman, and the popular young author and orator launched without preliminaries into a vigorous attack on the old parties and a forceful presentation of the aims and principles of the new party. He was often interrupted by the cheers of the enthusiastic "Bull Moosers," who clearly appreciated the speaker's way of handling the issues of the day.

AID DECLINED

Governor Marshall Will Pay His Own Way in Campaign.

Indianapolis, Aug. 1.—Governor
Marshall has arranged to borrow money for his campaign as Democratic nominee for the vice presidency. It is well known that the governor, as fortunes are measured nowadays, is a poor man, and it was necessary for him to arrange for a considerable sum of ready money to be drawn on in whatever campaigning he is called on
to do.

To meet his expenses the governor arranged with a banker who is his close personal friend to honor whatever drafts it may be necessary for him to draw for campaign purposes.
The governor's friends expect he will be called on to spend between $3,000 and $5,000 if he pays all the expenses of his campaign, as he says he expects
to do.

Four of the governor's friends who have comfortable fortunes met a few days ago and offered to give the money necessary for the campaign, but the governor declined to accept the gift.
"These are men of high political ideals and I can conceive of no condition in which they would seek to have the value of the money returned in political favors," said the governor,
"but I have always paid my own political expenses, have never been under any political obligations to any person because of campaign money, and I do not believe now is the time to begin.
I wish to keep my financial skirts as clean when a candidate for the vice presidency as when I was a candidate for governor. I know that kind of politics is right, and I believe that is the kind of politics the people of the country desire."

REAFFIRMATION OF MONROE DOCTRINE

Senate Committee Adopts Ringing Resolutions.

Washington, Aug. 1.—A ringing resolution apropos of the Magdalena Bay affair, warning foreign governments to keep their hands off territory in this hemisphere, was adopted by the senate committee on foreign relations.

The resolution, amounted to a reaffirmation of the Monroe doctrine and serves as an informal notice not only to Japan and Mexico, but to the rest of the world, that this government will not tolerate the establishment of a naval base on the Mexican coast.

The committee agreed in words
"that this government could not see without grave concern the acquisition of land on the American continent either by a foreign power or by foreign subjects who might turn that territory over to a foreign government to be used for military purposes." There was not a dissenting vote.

The resolution, which was drawn by Senator Lodge, not only reaffirms but more clearly defines, the doctrine of James Monroe. In submitting the report to the senate Mr. Lodge explained that the committee on foreign relations believed this to be a propitious time for making the declaration. It is conceded that the resolution will pass.

In the report submitted by Senator Lodge, the committee conceded that no evidence had been brought out tending to prove that Japan or any other country was behind the Magdalena Bay deal.

cept the bill as passed by the senate.

CHARGE AGAINST ANOTHER JUDGE

Congress Will Be Asked to Probe This Case.

AN UNUSUAL SCENE IN COURT

With Tears Streaming Down His Cheeks and His Voice Shaken With Sobs, Judge Emory Speer of the Federal Court For the District of Georgia Denies From the Bench the Charges Brought Against Him.

Macon, Ga., Aug. 1.—United States
Judge Emory Speer, from the bench, with tears streaming down his cheeks and with his voice broken by sobs, answered the attack made on him as a judge by Colonel W. A. Huff, for ten years mayor of Macon and a member of the legislature. Huff had demanded the impeachment of Judge Speer. Judge Speer's defense was made when Colonel Huff was arraigned on the charge of contempt which had been brought by Speer because of Huff's allegations. At the conclusion of Speer's defense of himself he declared he would not pass on the contempt charge which he had preferred against Huff, but would allow some other federal judge to decide the question. In the meanwhile Colonel Huff is out on bond.

There was a great crowd in and about the federal building, and when Colonel Huff appeared he was given an ovation, with Judge Speer looking on. Hundreds wished to shake Huff's hand and to assure him they would aid in bringing about an investigation of Judge Speer's conduct by congress.

Judge Speer was under great stress when he began his statement. He first attacked the newspaper men for sending the story broadcast over the land, then he broke down and with tears coursing down his face, said he had always conducted his court as he thought best. Judge Speer denied that he had gone to Eagle River, Alaska, at the expense of Huff's receiver.
He said he paid his own way going and coming, and that he owned stock in a mine at Eagle River, lawfully acquired. He denied the charge of showing favoritism to a so-called "family bank" of which his brother-in-law is vice president.

Judge Speer said that it appeared there was a conspiracy to traduce his character. He declared that the Huff estate had increased 100 per cent in value during its thirteen years in the custody of the court. Judge Speer admitted the Huff estate had been held by the court for an unusual time, but denied that this delay was for purposes of grafting. The judge bitterly denied that his court sheltered "pimps" and grafting officials.

The popular feeling seems to be entirely with Colonel Huff, and there is little doubt that congress will be asked to probe the charges. Already hundreds are signing a petition to get the matter before congress, and the newspapers are demanding an investigation. Last evening a great crowd, headed by a band, paraded through the streets to the home of Colonel Huff and serenaded him. The crowd then wanted to go to the home of Judge Speer and burn him in effigy, but the leaders urged that this be postponed.

COERCED BY CANNON

Heavy Guns Planted on Hills Overlooking Mormon Colony.

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 1.—Heavy rains have fallen upon the Mormon women and children gathered here in the sheds of an abandoned lumber yard, refugees from the rebel region in Mexico. Tents have not yet arrived from the government for their use. Reciting their hardships in the colonies and the taking of their arms, Bishop Orson
P. Brown, in a signed statement, says the rebels planted four cannon upon the hills above the colony before making the demand for all American arms,
the big guns in plain view of the colonists. He declared that "not a day passes in which the colonists do not suffer indignities and abuses of the meanest kind."

Held on Embezzlement Charge.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 1.—Allen
Chandler, for five years traveling salesman for the Miller-Parrott Baking company, was arrested for the embezzlement of $1,200 by withholding collections for two years. Chandler admitted his guilt. His trunks were packed and, with his wife, he was about to leave the city.

Thaw Again in Asylum.

White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 1.—Harry K. Thaw, the slayer of Stanford White, who lost in his attempt to gain
his freedom from Matteawan insane asylum for the criminal insane when Supreme Court Justice Keogh filed his decision here, declaring him insane,
has been taken back to the insane asylum.

Wilson's Speech Completed.

Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 1.—Governor Wilson's speech of acceptance, 6,000 words in all, was sent to the printers
this morning.

Alfred Hall will again teach at Gings.

Earl Mahin and James Sheedy will have charge of the Manilla high school this year.

Teachers should secure their special tickets at Hargrove & Mullin's drug store. Price $2.00.

What is a chautauqua? Read Edward Amherst Ott's definition in this column tomorrow. You will be interested and pleased.

A. M. Taylor, W. A. Stockinger and Mrs. Margaret Morton will be the instructors in the Milroy high school for the coming year.

The public is cordially invited to attend the forenoon sessions of the Rush county teachers institute. Sessions will be held in the coliseum.

Dr. John Wesley Hill will speak on Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on "International Peace." He is an orator of great ability and his story of the work of the foreign nations will be thrilling and full of information.

Professor E. A. Turner who will be one of the institute instructors, was formerly superintendent of the Connersville school. At present he has charge of the department of methods and practice teaching in the Illinois State Normal University, Ill.

The Lecture-Recitals and Prof. Paul M. Pearson will present a series of literary lectures that should be attended by all. His subjects and hours are as follows:

Monday, 3:45 p. m.—Rudyard Kipling.
Tuesday, 3:45 p. m.—The Piper.
Wednesday, 3:00 p. m.—Edgar Allen Poe
Thursday, 3:45 p. m.—The Scarecrow
Friday, 3:45 p. m.—The Bluebird.
Saturday, 3:15 p. m.—James Whitcomb Riley.

On Saturday night, August 10th, Sidney Landon, an expert character artist will appear. Mr. Landon's work is peculiarly adapted to the needs of the present day lyceum platform. While it supplies the fullest extent the constantly increasing demand for novelty, it possesses in addition to its universally conceded artistic excellence, an innate dignity and grace and refinement, and has all the fun and variety with the necessary merit to make it worth while. Mr. Landon uses wigs and paints and makes before his audience. His subjects are: "Great Literary Men," "Past and Present," "Uncle Sam's Family," and "Man, His Peculiarities."

The Race For President

AMUSEMENTS

The Portola offers the usual two pictures tonight. "The Girl With the Lantern" is a thrilling Selig railroad drama. "Foxy Cuid" is a clever Pathe comedy. The Kahn orchestra will be here Friday night.

The Palace will show another of the famous Bison 101 Ranch pictures tonight. The subject is in two reels and is entitled "The Lieutenant's Last Fight." Like all these pictures it is a thrilling Indian drama taken from life.

The Princess has two good dramas for tonight. "Fortunes of a Composer" is the title of the first which is a Vitagraph. It is said to tell a beautiful story and is a powerful film. "Detective Dorothy" is the title of the other. It is an Essanay picture.

SMALL BLAZE LAST EVENING

Shed at Home of Enos Miller is Destroyed.

Fire, supposed to have started from a spark from a Pennsylvania train destroyed a shed in the rear of Enos Miller's home, 430 East Tenth street, last night about eight o'clock. The blaze had made such headway before it was discovered that it was a mass of flames when the firemen arrived. It was only by hard work that the residence was saved. The loss was about $20 and is covered by insurance.

SAY STORY WAS NOT LIBELOUS

went through all the divisions of the interior department having jurisdiction over it, in the regular way, and was subject to all the scrutiny and examination given to all cases of like character, and was not allowed until May, 1912, after having been under investigation in the department more than one year.

All the engineering work required in connection with the scheme was completed some time ago and the only thing that has prevented the opening up of this magnificent valley to settlement has been the long delay, occasioned by the rigid investigation of the land office at Washington.

The whole transaction was conducted as your article asserts "in accordance with the rule followed for years" in the department, under the operation of which a large number of irrigation projects have been worked out, and in accordance with which railroads have disposed of millions of acres granted them as a bounty many, many years ago.

I never spoke to the President about this matter at any time, nor did any one else for me at my instance or request, nor did I ever mention it, either directly or indirectly, to either of his private secretaries.

I never discussed it with the Hon. Walter L. Fisher, secretary of the interior, for I never met him in my life.

Our company had its lawyers at Prescott, Ariz., and at Washington, D. C., and, inasmuch as it was strictly speaking, a legal question, they filed all the papers and attended to all the business.

I never attempted in any manner whatsoever to exert any political influence or to use any political "pull" in this matter, for I knew that the whole question had to be threshed out in accordance with the rules of law and regulations of the department, and that, in due time, the patents would be granted if we were entitled to them.

I am deeply gratified for the challenge issued by Secretary Fisher to any and all persons to furnish any evidence showing that any irregular methods were employed in this matter, and this fact, taken in connection with the positive statements of Commissioner Dennett of the land office, ought to satisfy any one that they at any rate, believe that this transaction was square and bona fide from the beginning.

There is no charge made that the deal is not an honest one or that the land is not fertile or that the water supply is not sufficient or that there is a lack of good faith anywhere manifest in this transaction, but the insinuation is thrown out that, because I was a supporter of President Taft at the Chicago convention and because the patents to these lands happened to be granted not long before that gathering, therefore either Taft, or Fisher or Dennett or Watson or somebody connected with this transaction must have been unduly influenced by the political situation.

There is not one syllable of truth in the insinuation and any suggestion of fraud, or dishonesty or unfair dealings, or irregular methods or political intrigue in connection with this affair is absolutely false.

An Indiana company, employing Indiana capital, is seeking to open up what is now a desert waste by the process of irrigation. We have gone at it in the regular way, in accordance with the law and the unbroken custom have invested our money, obtained our rights and are proceeding with our project in perfect good faith and are entirely willing that all the transactions of our company be thrown open to the light of day.

More than fifty men, citizens of Indiana, representing all shades of political belief, have invested in this enterprise; they are actuated by honest motives and have done absolutely nothing in connection with the affairs of this company inconsistent with law or morals.

And under these circumstances it will become the Chicago Tribune and the Philadelphia North American to seek to besmirch me or besmirch the President or any other person in official position simply because I am for Taft and they are not, and for no other reason on earth.

She did not want any more lunch and went into the parlor, where she sat down on the cushioned window-seat and looked out on the vaporous transparencies of the fog. She had waked with the sense of weight and apprehension heavy on her. As she dressed she had thought of the interview of yesterday with anger and also with something as much like fear as she was capable of feeling. She realized the folly of the rage she had shown, the folly and the futility of it, and she realized the danger of an open declaration of war with the fierce and unscrupulous old man who was her adversary. This, with her customary bold courage, she now tried to push from her mind. After all, he couldn't kill her, and that was about the only way he could get rid of her. Even Bill Cannon would hardly dare, in the present day in San Francisco, cold-bloodedly to murder a woman. The thought caused a slight, sarcastic smile to touch her lips. Fortunately for her, the lawless days of California were passed.

With the curtains caught between her finger-tips, her figure bent forward and motionless, she looked out into the street as if she saw something there of absorbing interest. But she saw nothing. All her mental activity was bent on the problem of Dominick's telephone message. She did not believe it. She was in that state where trifles light as air all point one way, and to have Dominick stay out to dinner with a sudden and unexpected "friend from New York" was more than a trifle. She assured herself with slow, cold reiteration that he was dining with Rose Cannon in the big house on California Street. If they walked together on Sunday mornings, why shouldn't they dine together on week-day nights? They were careful of appearances and they would never let themselves be seen together in any public place till they were formally

THE FIRST GRAY HAIR SIGN OF AGE

Easy Way to Preserve Natural Color of the Hair and Make It Grow.

A harmless remedy, made from common garden sage, quickly restores gray hair to natural color. The care of the hair, to prevent it from losing its color and lustre, is just as important as to care for teeth to keep them from discoloring. Why spend money for cosmetics and creams to improve the complexion, and yet neglect your hair, when gray hair is even more conspicuous and suggestive of age than wrinkles or a poor complexion? Of the two, it is easier to preserve the natural color and beauty of the hair than it is to have a good complexion.

All that is necessary is the occasional use of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation of common garden Sage and Sulphur, combined with other valuable remedies for dry, harsh, falling hair, dandruff, itching scalp and faded hair. After a few applications of this simple, harmless remedy, your hair will gradually be restored to its natural color, in a short time the dandruff will be removed, and your hair will no longer come out but will start to grow as Nature intended it should.

Don't neglect your hair, for it goes further than anything else to make or mar your good looks. You can buy this remedy at any drug store for fifty cents a bottle, and your druggist will give you money back if you are not satisfied after using a Purchase a bottle today. You will never regret it when you realize the difference it will make in your appearance.

BACK GIVES OUT

Plenty of Rushville Readers Have
This Experience.

You tax the kidneys—overwork them—
They can't keep up the continual strain.
The back gives out—it aches and pains;
Urinary troubles set in.
Don't wait longer—take Doan's Kidney Pills.

Rushville people tell you how they act.

Samuel A. Brown, 527 W. First St. Rushville, Ind., says: "I cannot speak too highly of Doan's Kidney Pills. For I know from personal experience that they live up to the claims made for them. About three years ago I was suddenly taken with an attack of backache and it steadily grew worse. I could hardly raise my foot from the ground and if I stooped, it really seemed as if my back would break. When someone advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I did so and I was certainly surprised by their promptness in relieving me. In three days I was free from backache and felt better in every way. Since then I have procured Doan's Kidney Pills at F. B. Johnson & Co.'s Drug Store and have seldom been without a supply in the house. Doan's Kidney Pills are worthy of the highest praise."

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

engaged. The man from New York was a fiction. She—that immaculate, perfect girl—had invented him. Dominick could not invent anything. He was not that kind of a man. But Berny knew that all women can lie when the occasion demands, and Rose Cannon could thus supply her lover's deficiencies.

With her blankly-staring eyes fixed on the white outside world, her mental vision conjured up a picture of them at dinner that night, sitting opposite each other at a table glistening with the richest of glass and silver, while soft-footed menials waited obsequiously upon them. Bill Cannon was not in the picture. Berny's imagination had excluded him, pushing him out of the romance into some unseen, uninteresting region where people who were not lovers dined dully by themselves. She could not imagine Rose and Dominick otherwise than alone, exchanging tender glances over the newest form of champagne glasses filled with the choicest brand of champagne.

A sound escaped her, a sound of pain, as if forced from her by the grinding of jealous passions within. She dropped the curtain and rose to her feet. If they married it would be always that way with them. They would have everything in the world, everything that to Berny made life worth while. Even Paris, with her three hundred thousand dollars to open all its doors, would be a savorless place to her if Rose and Dominick were to be left to the enjoyment of all the pleasures and luxuries of life back in California.

Unable to rest, fretted by jealousy, tormented by her longing for the offered money, oppressed by uneasiness as to Cannon's next move, the thought of the long afternoon in the house was unendurable to her. She could not remain unemployed and passive while her mind was in this state of disturbance. Though the day was bad and there was nothing to do down town, she determined to go out. She might find some distraction in watching the passers-by and looking at the shop windows.

By the time she was dressed, it was four o'clock. The fog was thicker than ever, hanging over the city in an even, motionless pall of vapor. Its breath had a keen, penetrating chill, like that exhaled by the mouth of a cavern. Coming down the steps into it she seemed to be entering a white, still sea, off which an air came that was pleasant on the heated dryness of her face. She had no place to go to, no engagement to keep, but instinctively turned her steps in the down-town direction. Walking would pass more time than going on the car, and she started down the street which slanted to a level and then climbed a long, dim reach of hill beyond. Its emptiness—a characteristic of San Francisco streets—struck upon her observation with a sense of gripping, bleak dreariness. She could look along the two lines of sidewalk till they were lost in the gradual milky thickening of the fog, and at intervals see a figure, faint and dreamlike, either emerging from space in slow approach, or melting into it in phantasmal withdrawal.

It was a melancholy, depressing vista. She had not reached the top of the long hill before she decided that she would walk no farther. Walking was only bearable when there was something to see. But she did not know what else to do or where to go. Indecision was not usually a feature of her character. To-day, however, the unaccustomed strain of temptation and worry seemed to have weakened her resourcefulness and resolution. The one point on which she felt determined was that she home.

The advancing front of a car, looming suddenly through the mist, decided her. She hailed it, climbed on board, and sank into a seat on the inside. There was no one else there. It smelt of dampness, of wet woollens and rubber overshoes, and its closed windows, filmed with fog, showed semicircular streaks across them where passengers had rubbed them clean to look out. The conductor, an unkempt man, with an unshaven chin and dirty collar, slouched in for her fare, extending a grimy paw toward her. As he took the money and punched the tag, he hummed a tune to himself, seeming to convey in that harmless act a slighting opinion of his passenger. Berny looked at him severely, which made him hum still louder, and lounge indifferently out to the back platform, where he leaned on the brake and spat scornfully into the street.

Berny felt that sitting there was worse than walking. There was no one to look at, there was nothing to be seen from the windows. The car dipped over the edge of an incline, slid with an even, skimming swiftness down the face of the hill, and then, with a series of small jouncings, crossed the rails of another line. Not knowing or caring where she was, she signaled the conductor to stop, and alighted. She looked round her for an uncertain moment, and then recognized the locality. She was close to the old Union Street plaza on which the Greek Church fronted. Here in the days before her marriage, when she and Hazel had been known as "the pretty Iverson girls," she had been wont to come on sunny Sunday mornings and sit on the benches with such beaux as brightened the monotony of that unspiring period.

She felt tired now and thought it would not be a bad idea to cross to the plaza and rest there for a space. She was warmly dressed and her clothes would not be hurt by the damp. Threading her way down the street, she came out on the opening where the little park lies like an unrolled green cloth round which the shabby, gray city crowds.

She sank down on the first empty bench, and looking round she saw other dark shapes, having a vague, huddled appearance, lounging in bunched-up attitude on the adjacent seats. They seemed preoccupied. It struck her that they, like herself, were plunged in meditation on matters which they had sought this damp seclusion silently to ponder. The only region of activity in the dim, still scene was where some boys were playing under the faintly-defined outline of a large willow tree. They were bending close to the ground in the performance of a game over which periods of quietness fell to be broken by sudden disrupting cries. As Berny took her seat their imp-like shapes dark and without detail, danced about under the tree in what appeared a fantastic ecstasy, while their cries broke through the woolly thickness of the air with an intimate clearness strangely at variance with the remote effect of their figures.

The fact that no one noticed her, or could clearly see her, affected her as it seemed to have done the other occupants of the benches. She relaxed from her alert sprightliness of pose, and sank against the back of the seat in the limpness of unobserved indifference. Sitting thus, her eyes on the ground, she heard, at first unheeding, then with a growing sense of attention, footsteps approaching on the gravel walk. They were the short, quick footsteps of a woman. Berny looked up and saw a woman, a little darker than the atmosphere, emerging from the surrounding grayness, as if she were slowly rising to the surface through water.

Her form detached itself gradually from the fog, the effect of deliberation being due to the fact that she was dressed in gray, a long, loose coat and a round hat with a film of veil

WHY BE MISERABLE WITH HAY FEVER

A Simple, Safe Remedy Gives Instant
Relief, Even in The Worst Cases.

Thousands of people are miserable two or three months every summer with Hay Fever and Rose Cold. They go around sneezing, blowing the nose and wiping their eyes, and at night they are so choked up they can hardly breathe. There is no need of this. Ely's Cream Balm will relieve all these distressing symptoms in less than five minutes' time.

Hay Fever is due to an over sensitive condition of the membrane lining of the nose and throat. Ely's Cream Balm soothes, heals and strengthens this delicate inside skin, so that you not only get instant relief but are also protected against a return of the trouble.

Don't hesitate because you have been disappointed with other remedies. Get a fifty-cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist, and if you are not satisfied after a fair trial, get your money back. All druggists sell and recommend it.

"A Man Doesn't Tell His Wife About His Affairs With Other Women."

about it. She would have been a study in monochrome but for the color in the cheek turned to Berny, a glowing, rose-tinted cheek into which the damp had called a pink brighter than any rouge. Berny looked at it with reluctant admiration, and the woman turned and presented her full face, blooming as a flower, to the watcher's eye. It was Rose Cannon.

If in these wan and dripping surroundings the young girl had not looked so freshly fair and comely, Berny might have let her pass unchecked. But upon the elder woman's sore and bitter mood the vision of this rosy youthfulness, triumphant where all the rest of the world sank unprotesting under the weight of a common ugliness, came with a sense of unbearable wrong and grievance. As Rose passed, Berny, with a sudden blinding uprush of excitement, leaned forward and rose.

"Miss Cannon," she said loudly. "Oh, Miss Cannon—just a moment."

Rose turned quickly, looking inquiringly at the owner of the voice. She had had a vague impression of a figure on the bench but had not looked at it. Now, though the face she saw was unfamiliar, she smiled and said: "Did you want to speak to me?"

The ingratiating amiability of her expression added to Berny's swelling sense of injury and injustice. Thus did this siren smile upon Dominick, and it was a smile that was very sweet. The excitement that had seized upon the older woman made her tremble, but she was glad, fiercely, burning glad, that she had stopped Miss Cannon.

"Yes," she said, "just for a moment, if you don't mind."

Rose had never seen the woman before, and at the first glance supposed her to be some form of peddler or a person selling tickets. The daughter of Bill Cannon was eagerly sought by members of her own sex who had wares for sale, and it did not strike her as odd that she should be stopped in the plaza on a foggy afternoon. But a second glance showed her that the woman before her was better dressed, more assured in manner than the female vender, and she felt puzzled and interested.

"You had something to say to me?" she queried again, the questioning infection a little more marked.

"Yes, but not much. I won't keep you more than a few moments. Won't you sit down?"

Berny designated the bench and they sat on it, a space between them. Rose sat forward on the edge of the seat, looking at the strange woman whose business with her she could not guess.

"You've never seen me before, have you, Miss Cannon?" said Berny. "You don't know who I am?"

The young girl shook her head with an air of embarrassed admission. "I'm afraid I don't," she said. "If I've ever met you before, it must have been a long time ago."

"You've never met me," said Berny, "but I guess you've heard of me. I am the wife of Dominick Ryan."

She said the words easily, but her eyes were lit with devouring fires as they fastened on the young woman's face. Upon this, signs of perturbation immediately displayed themselves. For a moment Rose was shaken beyond speech. She flushed to her hair, and her eyes dropped. To a jealous observation, she looked confused, trapped, guilty.

"Really," she said after the first moment of a shock, "I—I really don't think I ever did meet you." With her face crimson she raised her eyes and looked at her companion. "If I have, I must have forgotten it."

"You haven't," said Berny, "but you've met my husband."

Rose's color did not fade, but this time she did not avert her eyes. Pride and social training had come to her aid. She answered quietly and with something of dignity.

"Yes, I met Mr. Ryan at Antelope when we were snowed up there. I suppose he's told you all about it?"

"No," said Berny, her voice beginning to vibrate, "he hasn't told me all about it. He's told just as much as he thought I ought to know."

Her glance, riveted on Rose's face, contained a fierce antagonism that was like an illumination of hatred shining through her speech. "He didn't think it necessary to tell me everything that happened up there, Miss Cannon."

Rose turned half from her without answering. The action was like that of a child which shrinks from the angry face of punishment. Berny leaned forward that she might still see her and went on.

"He couldn't tell me all that had pened up at Antelope. There are some things that it wouldn't have done for him to tell me. A man doesn't tell his wife about his affairs with other women. But sometimes, Miss Cannon, she finds them out."

Rose turned suddenly upon her. "Mrs. Ryan," she said in a cold, authoritative voice, "what do you want to say to me? You stopped me just now to say something. Whatever it is, say it and say it out."

Berny's rages invariably worked themselves out on the same lines. With battle boiling within her, she could preserve up to a certain point a specious, outward calm. Then suddenly, at some slight, harmless word, some touch as light as the pressure on the electric button that sets off the dynamite explosion, the bonds of her wrath were broken and it burst into expression. Now her enforced restraint was torn into shreds, and she cried, her voice quivering with passion, shaken with breathlessness:

"What do you suppose I want to say? I want to ask you what right you've got to try to steal my husband?"

"I have no right," said Rose.

Berny was, for the moment, so taken aback, that she said nothing but stared with her whole face set in a rigidity of fierce attention. After a moment's quivering amaze she burst out:

"Then, what are you doing it for?"

"I am not doing it."

"You're a liar," she cried furiously. "You're worse than a liar. You're a thief. You're trying to get him every way you know how. You sit there looking at me with a face like a little innocent, and you know there's not a thing you can do to get him away from me you're not doing. If a common gutter girl had acted that way they'd call her some pretty dirty names, names that would make you sit up if you thought any one would use them to you. But I don't see where there's any difference. You think because you're rich and on top of the heap that you can do anything. Just let me tell you, Miss Rose Cannon, you can't steal Dominick Ryan from me. You may be Bill Cannon's daughter, with all the mines of the Comstock behind you, but you can't buy my husband."

NOTICE TO MEAT PATRONS

Few people realize what it means to deliver goods to all parts of the city and still please every patron. An establishment must have some regularity or system about its delivery else dissatisfaction is sure to result. Since the size of Rushville has increased so materially and the meat markets especially have to deliver to all parts of the city, it is imperative that some hours for delivery be observed. Patrons should remember that they are not the only persons ordering but that others, too, must be accommodated in the same way they are. The Weeks Fresh Meat and Provision Company has strict rules about its delivery, and it asks that they be observed. The delivery wagon leaves on the hour, and orders from the distant parts of the city received after ten in the morning can not be delivered for dinner. Deliveries of orders close in received up until eleven will be made. Only one delivery is made in the afternoon, the wagon leaving at four o'clock. Orders received after that can not be delivered. 119t5

TAKES STAND TO TELL HER STORY

Mrs. Daisy Grace Testifies in Her Own Behalf.
 IS CONFIDENT OF ACQUITTAL.

"It Doesn't Take Long For the Truth to Be Told," Declares Atlanta Society Woman Accused of Shooting Her Husband, Just Before She Took the Witness Stand—State Claims to Have Scored Heavily.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 1.—The state rested its case after scoring two important victories in the trial of Mrs. Daisy Grace on the charge of shooting her husband, and Mrs. Grace took the stand today to tell her story.

The two victories were, first, the admission of the now famous "alibi letters," which the state expects the jury to believe Mrs. Grace wrote to herself; second, the admission of the bedside conversation between Mr. and Mrs. Grace, when Mrs. Grace stood beside her stricken husband's bed and asked what was this accusation he was making against her, when, the state claims, no one had told of the accusation and it was her guilty conscience impelling her.

George C. Bullard, city detective, was the witness who was permitted to tell of the meeting at the hospital. "Who spoke first?" asked Solicitor Dorsey.

"Mrs. Grace."
 "What did she say?"
 "She said: 'How did this happen, Gene; what have you been telling these people, they tell me you say I shot you?'"

"Did she kiss her husband?"
 "No," she stood straight up beside the bed.

Judge Roan would not permit the witness to relate to the jury the subsequent conversation between husband and wife. He admitted her first statement, because the prosecution claimed that it had been proven by witnesses who were with Mrs. Grace from the time she heard the news until the meeting at the hospital, that no one had told her she had been accused.

Although the prosecution attached great weight to the "alibi letters" and contends that they show that the shooting of Grace was planned by his wife, the defense claims that Mrs. Grace has not been connected with them in any way by the evidence.

Mrs. Grace did not receive either of the two letters which it is alleged she wrote, signed with her husband's name and addressed to herself at Newman, Ga., in order to establish an alibi. The letters, in one envelope, were postmarked "Atlanta, 4:30 p. m." on the day of the shooting. They reached Newman after she had returned to Atlanta in response to a telephone message that her husband had been shot. They were forwarded to her, but fell into Grace's hands and were turned over to the attorneys by him. The handwriting on the envelope has been identified as that of Grace by witnesses, but none of them was able to identify the handwriting of one of the letters, which was scribbled with a pencil. The other was a typewritten letter.

Attorneys for the state openly admit that their case would have been gone if the court had barred these letters. They claim that the letters complete the chain of circumstantial evidence against Mrs. Grace. Mrs. Grace declared she was glad she would take the stand.

"It will not take long for the defense to present its side," she said. "What our witnesses will say will be the truth. It doesn't take long for the truth to be told. I want to get through with it. I want it over. I don't believe that they could convict if I didn't take the stand, but I am going on anyhow."

The accused wife did not intimate what her testimony would be, but starting disclosures were expected. Mrs. Grace expects to become a mother before long, and the defense hopes to get this fact before the jury.

ALBERT J. BEVERIDGE
 Former Senator Heads Ticket of New Party.

SOUTHERN DEMOCRAT FOR A RUNNING MATE

That Is What the Colonel Is Looking For.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 1.—If a suitable progressive, who is also a Democrat and a southerner can be unearthed, he will be put up at Chicago as a running mate for Colonel Roosevelt. The third party leader said as much, but went on to indicate the difficulty which was being encountered in finding the right man to gain the support he fondly hopes to win from the solid south, not only for the approaching election, but for the groundwork he is laying of a nation-wide progressive party for future usefulness. He was, he said, also on the lookout for a convention permanent chairman of the same section and past political affiliation to counterbalance the ex-Indiana senator, Albert J. Beveridge, who will occupy the temporary chairmanship.

Some hitch has caused the colonel to withdraw his proposal of John M. Parker, the New Orleans Democrat, for the convention presiding officer. His only explanation was that after he and Senator Dixon had made the announcement of their selection, it was recalled that the southerner was to make one of the speeches seconding the Roosevelt nomination. No other name was mentioned by the colonel for the place.

LIBERTY DROPS GAME TO LOCALS

Contest Featured by a Couple of "Flights" Goes to Rushville
5 to 4.

ROBINSON DELIVERS GOODS

Has One Bad Inning—the Third—
But Settles Down and Pitches
Grand Ball.

Col. Paul Peck was not the only one to make a flight yesterday. The Rushville and Liberty teams each took a flier and while the flights only lasted one inning they were enough to put the game on ice. If the aviator had been flying over the ball field during the first and third innings he would have had lots of company for "everybody was doing it."

The score was 5 to 4 with the locals on the heavy end. The game, however, was not as close as the score would indicate. It was a listless game and but for the two big innings the crowd that packed the field would have gone to sleep from lack of interest. The game had several redeeming features, the principal one of which was the pitching of Robinson for Rushville. "Bobby" it will be remembered is the tall corn knocker that pitched for Lebanon here two weeks ago and let the locals down with four scattered hits. He was right again yesterday and the Liberty-Hamilton bunch was let down with three hits.

His pitching yesterday was rather remarkable when it is taken into consideration that he had not pitched a game since that Sunday he was here with Lebanon. "Bobby" had only one bad inning—the third. In this session he faltered, settled down and ended by finishing strong. It looked as if the stuff was all off in that inning he faltered, but the dope was all wrong and the farther he went the better he got.

The locals regained their batting eyes and nine safe shots were gathered off Sanders. Anderson was the big noise with the bat for Rushville. The plucky little catcher got a double and two singles out of four times up. Chance was a close second, piling out a triple and a single.

Robinson fanned the first two men up and the third was an easy out. Robinson to Thomas. Carter started the fireworks for Rushville by hitting safe to the third baseman. It was a hard hit ball and too hot to be fielded. Halterman hunted to Sanders in an effort to sacrifice Carter. Sanders was a little slow on his throw to second and all hands were safe. Scott struck out. Chance singled to right. Carter coming across with the first run. Anderson drove in Halterman and Chance with a single to right. Anderson stole third. Robinson was out, short-stop to first. Thomas was safe when the right fielder dropped a fly. Anderson scored on the play. Geraghty hit safe and Thomas ran the bases wild getting caught at the plate. Four singles netted four runs.

Liberty got one on in the second, but he reached second base. Vidourik flew out to Coombs. Maibaugh was safe on Carter's error. It was a hard chance and should have been Coombs' ball as Carter had to run away back into left field. Peters forced Maibaugh at second and Beard struck out. Rushville went out in order in their half.

Liberty tied up the score in the third. J. Stanley was hit by Robinson. Sanders was safe on Chance's error, Stanley taking third. E. Stanley struck out. Branan hit safe scoring Stanley. Thomas made an effort to catch Sanders at home but failed. Branan took second while the locals were passing the ball around. Anderson threw to Carter but it was too low. Olemflus struck out. Vidourik slammed one for three bases, scoring Branan and scored himself on a wild leave over third. Maibaugh ended the comedy by flying out to Scott in center field. Two hits, an error and a hit batsman netted four runs.

Rushville broke the tie in the last half of the third. Scott flew out to Stanley back of second. Chance hit for three bases and scored when Anderson hit to the short stop, who tried to catch Chance at the plate. From this time on Robinson pitched grand ball and Liberty never had a look in. Sanders also settled down and after the third allowed only three scattered hits, and the game ended 5 to 4. A fast double play, Carter and Halterman to Thomas, cut down Liberty's chance in the ninth and ended the game. The score:

NOTES OF THE GAME.

Anderson says Robinson has the makings of a good pitcher and with a little more experience will be ripe for faster company.

Maibaugh, in left field for the visitors, is a nephew of Manager Frank. He pulled off two of the prettiest catches seen here this year. Both were high flies and hard chances, but he got away with them in an easy manner.

Coombs played a nice game in the left garden for the locals. He accepted three chances and poked out one of Rushville's nine hits.

"Runt" Stanley at the second for Liberty got his baseball education at Wabash College, where he played right field on the varsity this year.

It might be of interest to local fans to know that Charles Stiers, a former local boy, now playing with the Maxwell-Briseoe team is batting .305. "Pappy" has fourteen hits out of forty-six times at bat and has scored eight runs.

The slight dispute in the seventh was over whether Beard turned to the left or right at first base. He turned to the left but was safe as he did not try to take second. The old rule has long since been discarded.

The crowd was estimated at one thousand with about twice as many on the outside.

The locals expect to repeat again Sunday at Shelbyville. A number of fans will accompany the team.

EVOLUTION IN METHODS OF LOCOMOTION ILLUSTRATED

too much to say that a horse and buggy was passed some place along the road. And further still: The ox teams are not all extinct in Rush county and it may be possible that one of those representatives of the ancient mode of travel was some place in the vicinity passed over by Col. Peck.

Col. Peck followed the railroad and interurban tracks from Connersville here. He had no trouble in locating the Jersey City field.

MEETINGS PLANNED.

The Rev. F. Jacobs, pastor of the Ben Davis Creek church will not preach until the second Sunday in August, the eleventh, instead of filling his regular appointment. At that time he will begin a series of protracted meetings to continue for two weeks. He will be assisted by Ferris Stevens, an evangelistic singer. The evening meetings will begin at 7:45 o'clock.

Aerochugs

If an aviator can aviate, can an aeroplane?

It was the largest crowd John Boyd has had in many a moon.

Dora Abercrombie couldn't hear the chug of the engine, but he enjoyed the exhibition of skill as well as a six-year-old boy.

The crowd thought that Col. Peck was going to fall in one of Bill Jones' corn fields when he was descending after the exhibition. "Looks like he was going to stop to stalk up his machine, murmured an onlooker.

A lot of farmers who were too busy to attend the Bull Moose convention last Saturday managed to get to Rushville some way or other yesterday afternoon.

"I read where Col. Peck was going to try this spiral glide," vouchsafed Boone Thorpe. "I'd like for somebody to ask him to put on the bunny hug too while he's up in the air."

Frank Maibaugh acted like a real press agent for an aerial artist. Since he has a ball team that seldom puts on any flights, he exhibited natural adaption for the avocation, considering the lack of experience.

Claude Simpson, just up from sunny Roswell, New Mexico, had to admit that the little town of continual sunshine and bustle, as progressive as it is, never offered anything like Rushville afforded its people yesterday.

"Isn't that an inspiring sight!" exclaimed a member of the local lodge of Eagles just as Col. Peck made a graceful swoop with his air craft, something similar to the way the bird that is emblematic of that secret order flies.

Doubtless the stay-out-siders and watch-the-flight crowd was more than delighted at its excellent judgment when it learned that the place of landing had been changed from the bull park to the Jersey City aviation field, alias Bill Jones' meadow.

Col. Peck thought that the greenery which one of Rushville's young society women wanted to hand him must have a lemon concealed in it some place. "I'm afraid of this place and I don't care about taking a chance. Look at the name—Rushville.

Miss Rosie Brock, Western Union telegraph agent here, wanted Col. Peck to take her for a ride in his airship. But the colonel, although her plan was hard to resist, declared that the risk would be too great. He said he might buy an air craft for two some day.

Alec Williams, "mayor" of Jersey City, who really ought to be the presiding officer at the Jersey City Aviation, did not show up yesterday according to arrangements. He was to have dedicated the field with a defense of the pawpaw as a method to gain publicity.

The first real ascension of the aviation day crowd was in the first and third innings of the ball game. Liberty went up in the first and Rushville scored four runs. After Liberty had descended, Rushville scored in the air long enough for the visitors from the place Frank Maibaugh calls home to even up.

AGED MAN WAS ASTOUNDED

parts of the country, entirely familiar sights.

As to the sensations of cutting the upper atmosphere, the aviator smiled and said they were indescribable but unendingly delightful. Also he gave the rather surprising information that practically all aeroplane accidents happen close to earth—that is less than a hundred feet high.

COL PECK PLANNED TO CARRY BAG OF MAIL TO RUSHVILLE

brings to light a fact that probably few local people knew, that the government would allow any thing other than regular carriers handle the mail. The Rushville clerks say there have been many instances in other States where mail has been carried by aviators, but that it was never tried in Indiana.

The postoffice department has to issue a special order to cover each case of transportation by the aerial route, and each route is given a number. Mail sent in this manner can be addressed to any point just as if it were going through regular channels. Col. Peck frequently carries the mail where he gives flights.

NOTICE! A New Farm Gate On Exhibition in Town

Everyone interested in Rushville and Rush County should read every word of this advertisement. This is what the Peoples Gate Co. has to say about the Gate business. We have had several years experience with Gates, and have made an effort to have the best gate on the market and we consider

The Peoples' Gate Has No Equal

But we find a good many farmers who want two or three of the People's Gates where they are used several times daily. Then they would like perhaps a dozen CHEAPER ones to fill gateways where they are only used occasionally.

We want to say right here we have purchased the patents on the Yankee Gate which is a new invention and just patented and that we are going to sell it in connection with the Peoples' Gate.

We Believe In a Square Deal and Here Is a Word to the Many Farmers

All those who have purchased The Peoples' Gate and Farm Right, by calling at our office and presenting their certificate, we will give them free of charge the right to make and use the new Yankee Gate. This Gate will be on exhibition Sat., Aug. 3, at Oneal Bros. We take pleasure in demonstrating it to all who call.
